

It's Hard to Say "No" Cards

You are at a party, and someone you've always thought was pretty nice is pressuring you to have a beer.

You have a huge test tomorrow, and someone in your class that you like a lot is encouraging you to hang out with him/her instead of studying.

Your older brother's cute best friend is driving you and a friend home from school. He pulls out a pack of cigarettes, and offers you each one.

Your friend is pressuring you to borrow money, even though he/she hasn't paid you back since the last time you lent him/her some cash.

During lunch period, someone you look up to wants to copy your homework, which you spent 2 hours working on last night.

You are home alone, and some kids you don't know all that well are pressuring you to let them come over.

You are at a family gathering, and an older cousin that you admire wants you to go outside and smoke with him/her.

You are at a party, and your best friend wants you to come home with him/her, but the person who is supposed to drive has been drinking.

It is Friday and the weather is great! One of your friends catches you in the hall before the final class of the day to tell you that “everyone” is cutting class.

You are walking in the mall with a bunch of friends. Someone dares you to steal a candy bar from one of the stores.